

Chapter Three : Supporting Learning for All

"Discussions that center around philosophy, art and literature occur frequently at my coffee shop. Customers ask for recommendations of books to read based on our discussions. I refer them to our local library to check out these selections. There's something about physically opening a book...an experience the digital age cannot duplicate. A good library is an important resource in our community."

Nathanael Tucker

Lewiston Small Business Owner, La Boheme

The story we're writing now supports learning for all, no matter our passions, our politics or our position in society. Your interaction with the world around you is influenced by your local library through books, the Internet and community classes. Your local library is a place where everyone is welcome to come, learn and grow.

With your help, we're not just building a library, we're creating the heart of the community.

We are planning to be in our new home in downtown Lewiston Spring 2013. Be a part of this story by making a donation to help us remodel the Cornerstone/Erb Hardware Building.
